

We've been working with Big Barn H-D for nearly a decade, initially starting with a relationship to help them drive more traffic to the site...we doubled it in 3 months. From there it went to email marketing that customizes content to the customers' interests, inventory management applications, content management systems, adding new product lines and rental services. Over the years Big Barn H-D has steadily become a benchmark for other Harley-Davidson dealers, and their new web site puts them at the very front of the pack.

AdEasel developed an inventory management system to showcase all featured pre-owned motorcycles for sale through Big Barn. Employees can upload images of the bikes along with mileage, price, color, stock numbers and a description. Users can then target their online search by sorting for bikes by year, price, family, model and mileage.

Dynamic navigation is an important feature of Big Barn's new web site. Whether searching through the Gear section to find the best Harley - Davidson accessories or cruising through the Rental section to find the Softtail that they'd like to take for a ride over the weekend, dynamic navigation engages users and allows them to interact with the web site.
